Tip:

When a flower bouquet has seen better days, it can still be put to good use. While no longer fit to provide fragrance or home decor, these dead flowers can complete the circle of life by becoming compost to feed the soil, which will in turn feed the next generation of blooms.

Did you Know?

Did you know that more Canadians die from exposure to winter cold than from lightning, wind storms and tornadoes combined? As important as it is to stay active outdoors this winter, take precautions when the mercury dips. Frostbite is most likely to occur on the feet, hands, ears, nose and face, multiple thin layers of clothing help to create air pockets that retain body heat.
